

Statement of participation

Oluwaseun Ajayi

has completed the free course including any mandatory tests for:

Continuity and learning

This 12-hour free course explored how people and workplace cultures create formal, informal, planned and unplanned opportunities to learn at work.

Issue date: 29 September 2023

www.open.edu/openlearn

This statement does not imply the award of credit points nor the conferment of a University Qualification.
This statement confirms that this free course and all mandatory tests were passed by the learner.

Please go to the course on OpenLearn for full details:

<https://www.open.edu/openlearn/education-development/continuity-and-learning/content-section-0>

COURSE CODE: E101_1

Continuity and learning

<https://www.open.edu/openlearn/education-development/continuity-and-learning/content-section-0>

Course summary

This free course, Continuity and learning, has a practical and professional development focus. You will explore interactive dimensions of workplace learning: how people and workplace cultures create formal, informal, planned and unplanned opportunities to learn. You will read about 'biographical learning' research, where adults develop narratives to better understand key points of their learning lives. You will plan and carry out a brief, informal interview with a colleague, and your colleague will interview you, on themes of learning and work. To complete this OpenLearn course you will write a short draft of the key points of the interview and reflect on your own learning biography.

Learning outcomes

By completing this course, the learner should be able to:

- identify specific dimensions of workplace learning
- understand the concept of biographical learning
- plan and carry out an informal interview about lifelong learning.

Completed study

The learner has completed the following:

Section 1

Workplace learning

Section 2

Biographical learning

Section 3

Learning lives

Section 4

Conclusion